1. The Chinese residents of Shanghai are very interested in foreign broadcasts, particularly those coming from Manila, Radio Taiwan and the British Broadcasting Company in Hong Kong. The Chinese discredit the Chinese Communist news and are hungry for outside news which they consider truthful. A British resident in Shanghai tells of several Chinese cooks pooling their funds to buy a radio which they kept hidden in his kitchen.
2. The Chinese Nationalist leaflets dropped over the southeast coastal provinces are of little value. This is because most of the people whom they reach are illiterate and therefore unable to understand the cartoons. However, Radio Taiwan is well liked and widely listened to in secret.
